Mark did a fabulous job on his argument; Judge Roof said he was prepared to rule, but decided he wanted to satisfy himself about the execution statute. To us, that means he was ready to rule in our favor; we still think he will, but he has ten days to write a decision.

How did closing arguments go. Any ruling?
Ken.

Closing arguments are today at 3:00. Judge Roof said that if one of us makes a “compelling” argument, he’ll decide today at the hearing; otherwise we wait for something to come in the mail.

Natacha’s testimony was confusing to all of us. I’ll let you know what happens this afternoon.

We are updating our mailing list. We still have you at the Fire Dept. What is your current address?

How did the testimony go the following morning, as well as the closing arguments?

What a waste of Judge Roof’s time. I saw in the paper today that he presided over a sentencing or something regarding a murder or very serious crime--something very important.
